"There will soon come the time where I will once again be asked by some curious music lover what classical guitar CD I recommend they buy in order to introduce themselves to the instrument. When that time arrives, Matthew McAllister will be the name that will spring to mind and the album will be Merula"

Timothy Smith - Minor 7th Magazine

Matthew's 2006 and 2015 albums Recital and Bidla with his duo partner Irish flautist Aisling Agnew affirms their reputation as the leading exponents of the Flute & Guitar genre featuring a wide range of virtuosic and beautiful music from around the globe.

"The guitar work, substituting for a more ambitious orchestra, carries the burden of shading the bright, optimistic, and virtuosic flute with all the dark foreboding of the drama. McAllister accomplishes this brilliantly with great understatement, never intruding, yet always pointing to the tragedy."

Classical Music Guide

"From Baroque flair to modern soundscapes the Agnew McAllister Duo deliver virtuosity, beauty, and solid musicianship making Bidla a top ensemble pick for 2015."

As an educator Matthew holds the posts of Classical Guitar Tutor and Lecturer in Music at the University of St Andrews & Royal Conservatoire of Scotland, and most recently established the Classical Guitar Retreat which presents a residential summer course on the Island of Cumbrae off the West Coast of Scotland.

I had the chance to meet Matthew McAllister a few years back when he was adjudicating the Greater Victoria Performing Arts Festival in Canada. He is one of nicest people I've met and inspired my students as well as demonstrated some beautiful playing.
